Science Direct

Content from ScienceDirect is available through Drew Library's subscription to a select group of Elsevier journals (See Table below) and through "pay-perdownload" (ppd) access to all other unsubscribed content, paid for by Drew Library.

- Access to subscribed content from ScienceDirect is restricted to Drew University users (including current students, faculty and staff) and patrons using Drew Library public computers.
- Access to unsubscribed content is restricted to Drew University users only (current students, faculty and staff).

Procedures for obtaining "pay-per-download" content varies, depending on the user. Please see the appropriate instructions for Drew Students and Drew Faculty/Staff.

For Drew University Students:

Students may access pay-per-download articles from ScienceDirect journals outside of Drew University's Core Subscription package by submitting a request through the Drew Library Chat feature (link: http://www.drew.edu/library/ask-a-librarian) during select hours, Sun-Wed; 7-9PM and Mon-Fri; 9-5PM, semesters only, or by using the Interlibrary Loan system (HERE). See instructions for both below.

Depending on when the request is submitted, the Librarian answering the Library Chat may be able to supply the ScienceDirect article within 30 minutes to 1 hour, while Interlibrary Loan may supply the desired article(s) sometime between 12 - 72 hours.

 NOTE: Students do NOT need to register in order to access or download articles. They MAY register with Science Direct to keep track of Saved Citations, etc.

Step-by-step guide to obtain pay-per-download (ppd) articles

To obtain the desired article through Library Chat during the hours Sun-Thurs; 6-10PM and Mon-Fri; 9-5PM, semesters only,

• If you were unable to locate the article through GoogleScholar, submit your request through the LibraryChat box if available.

• Use the CHAT box found on the Scholar Search Results page to ask for an article – supply the Librarian with citation information by copy and pasting the relevant information into the chat box. Once request has been received through Library Chat, student may receive the article via email in approx. 2 hours.
